"In this moment you would see a man standing facing another man and with his smiles, with the love that he pours out, causes the other to smile." Now has he not caused that man in that moment to express God? See how simply you may serve?"

"This one, then, would be particularly gifted as comedian, and would play well those roles that would stimulate laughter in others. And realize that this is a Divine Mission, the lifting of the spirits of others. Realize that through bringing the smiles, the laughter, to the face of those on this plane, you are responsible for counteracting a great deal of the anger, the hate, on this plane, and only by so doing can this be counter-acted, i.e., as these are produced – those vibrations of hate and anger – those that tear down the vibrations of the Earth Sphere, if there were so many more like this one, who could bring a smile to the lips, the joy in the heart, would you not lift the very vibrations of this planet by producing laughter, by producing enjoyment, in the hearts of others?"

"There is no greater service on this plane than that of entertaining in such manners as would produce smiles and laughter, would cause people to join together in love, for where is there room for hatred or animosity in a group of people laughing together? Do not their vibrations, even, join within that caused them to laugh together? Would this not, then, be a spiritual ministry of the highest order? See it in this manner, and train so many others to go out into the world, teaching people to laugh, to smile. Be this the ministry of this one."

"Now this one so often, upon entering a group or meeting another would lack the smile and projection of warmth and love, though this is not realized with the self.

For this is the product of fear, the fear then makes this one vulnerable to the vibrations of others. And we find thus that other questions here have been asked concerning this relationship; for so often this one would produce this feeling. The negative atmosphere about self through the hesitancy to give forth of self to others. Then in the holding back, in the reserving of self, the smile, the warmth, the lifting, raising vibrations that this one is so capable of producing; these are held within, and in doing so, this one receives, absorbs the vibrations of people.

"But if there were produced within self the feeling of the Artesian Well, that which bubbles forth, the presence of spirit and the smile upon the face, know what these mechanical concepts, the feeling of being beautiful, the feeling of projecting radiance, the feeling of responsibility for the level of vibration, for the happiness, for the vitality of all in this room, then she would be perfectly capable and is perfectly capable of entering such a room with such a level of vibration, that all about would respond and be lifted.

And rather than the drain as feeling that something was taken from the self, then the energy within the self will be built and will be maintained at a higher level.

"Know that one is only drained when that is taken from him, is taken not of his will but because he failed to project. Then it is not giving, but theft of energy, from self that drains the self psychically. Then give of self, thereby protecting self, for as there is the conscious giving of oneself to another, there is, as well, the building of that which is being given. Never can one give of the love that is within, without producing the greater love in response. Remember the filling of the widow's vessel, in the pouring into other vessels, the single vessel always became full again, and overflowed. Then give of self in this manner."

"Now this would be the ministry of this lifetime, recognize it as Divine charge, for there is no greater mission. Blessed is he who can so serve that others would be humbled by His Presence. Wear His radiant smile, let always His light shine through this life, through this body. There is no greater gift than one whose only gift is the radiance of His Divine smile, the ability to allow the Christ to be reflected in all those about."

"Look for opportunities to make others happy for this is the special talent for this one. This one would have a great deal of ability to project humor, to cause others to smile and laugh...Realize that the best you can do on this plane of earth is to cause others to smile and seek especially to use this ability to make others smile and laugh and if there would be the psychic reading of others, do this in a humorous way or that is, that this one would not claim to be a spiritual reader, but this one would poke fun at the faults of others, at the ideas of others and read the palms or these other things, the crystal balls or whatever in a joking way, but that which is seen as personality defects in the one being read, would be pointed out in a laughing manner that the person would learn to laugh at himself and thus draw out others and cause them to be the more spiritual person. Then thou would have more purposes than one; there will be the laughter, the smiles brought to the face, to the life, for each one will recognize himself in the jokes, in the fun poked at their personality and would seek to develop, to bring out the truth of self. It would be easier to see one's own faults if presented in this manner. Then one would have the special ability to do so and we would see that this should be developed."
